

On the boil

What do you dream about at the moment?
Silvia, Observer reader, Sofia, Bulgaria

Forgetting things. The heady possibility of travelling without mislaid passports. Breathing under the sea. I'm not particularly forgetful but there are such exertions needed for travel, especially because, when I'm at home, I do sink down into the loam a bit. I always think if you work in cities, it probably keeps you on the boil, but I'm not at all on the boil at home.
